Functionality

1. Functionality Set 1 - Users Table (Jun Lee)

- a. General users can sign up and sign in with their information, and they can also update their login information on the profile page. Admin can see all user accounts and their information except for the password. Admin also can update any user account information or delete any user account except for his or her own account.

2. Functionality Set 2 - Flights Table and OnFlight Table (Jessica Odutola)

- a. General users can view the list of flights and choose flights to join. They can also remove flights from their own personal list of flights. Admins have the same capabilities as general users. Admins can create flights and remove flights from the actual list of flights. Admins can also update any flight.

3. Functionality Set 3 - Location Table and Activity Table (Sung Rung Yoo)

General users can create a Location with a Name and weather. They can also edit and delete the specific Location they want. General users can create an activity with activity type and activity price with location id. Admins can look at the location ID from their location page which a general user can not do. In addition, an admin can edit an activity where a general user can only delete and create.

4. Functionality Set 4 - Reviews Table and Item Table (Jack Warham)

- a. Reviews: General users can create reviews by selecting an activity and a rating. General users can update their reviews' activity and rating. General users can delete their reviews. General users can view all user's reviews. Admins can create reviews by selecting a user, an activity, and a rating. Admins can update any user's review activity and rating. Admins can delete any user's review.

- b. Items: General users can create an item by entering a weight and item type. General users can update their items' weight and item type. General users can delete their items. Admins can create items by selecting a user and entering a weight and a rating. Admins can update any user's item weight and item type. Admins can delete any user's items.
